Open dialogue in Bukhara

2025 19 December

Uzbekistan Airways held an open dialogue meeting in Bukhara with city residents, travel agents, and media representatives. During the event, participants discussed key issues related to the route network, fare policy, agency cooperation, and prospects for the development of air travel in the region.

Airline representatives discussed current and planned routes from Bukhara in detail. The dialogue included proposals for optimizing the schedule, including increasing the number of Uzbekistan Airways flights in the evening by redistributing Silk Avia flights.

A separate part of the meeting was devoted to the prospects for the development of air traffic after the commissioning of the new international airport in Bukhara. Participants discussed the possible opening of new routes and the assessment of the profitability of destinations, considering development plans until 2026.

The open format of the meeting allowed participants to directly ask questions and receive explanations from Uzbekistan Airways representatives, which underscored the airline's commitment to transparent dialogue and joint development of the aviation industry in the region.
