The Uzbekistan Airways team performs well in the Team Championships

2026 25 February

The 4th KLC Cup (CS2) has concluded! One of the tournament's biggest highlights was the Uzbekistan Airways team, proving that being a "favorite" doesn't matter when you have character, discipline, and team chemistry.

A Silent Start – A Stellar Result

Heading into the tournament, Uzbekistan Airways weren’t considered top contenders for the podium. However, our colleagues managed to impose their playstyle on nearly every opponent. The team demonstrated:

• Precise aim and effective trade-fragging;

• Clutch composure in high-pressure situations;

• Well-prepared strategies on key maps;

• The ability to adapt mid-game during BO3 series.

In a fierce competition filled with comebacks and neck-and-neck rounds, the squad secured 4th place in the Gold Cup – a result that stands as a significant achievement.

Character and Progress

Crucially, the team didn't just "hold on" – they set the pace. Even against more experienced rivals, Uzbekistan Airways remained highly competitive, showcasing solid macro-play and disciplined site retakes.

This tournament marks a major step forward for the roster:

• Gaining valuable experience against top-tier teams;

• Strengthening their mental fortitude;

• Proving they can fight for the top spots.

Potential for More

With this mindset and growth dynamic, Uzbekistan Airways has every chance to not only repeat this success but aim for the Grand Final in the next KLC Cup. The team has already shown they can compete on equal footing; now it’s all about consistency and fine-tuning their strategies.

Fourth place is not the ceiling – it’s the launchpad.

If this progress continues, Uzbekistan Airways is well-positioned to break into the Top 3 in future tournaments.

GG WP! More thrilling matches and big victories lie ahead.