Uzbekistan Airways Fare Policy Update

2026 17 March

To expand passenger choice and enhance the flexibility of air travel conditions, the airline is introducing branded fares that offer multiple ticket pricing tiers. Branded fares will differ in travel conditions and the set of included services (baggage allowance, ticket exchange and refund rules, the ability to change departure dates, and other service options), allowing passengers to choose the most suitable flight option.

Domestic Routes

Effective April 1, 2026, branded fares are being introduced on domestic routes within the Republic of Uzbekistan, with minimum fare levels under the "Lite" brand:

- Tashkent – Andijan — from 235,230 UZS

The specified fares represent the minimum airfare levels and are subject to change depending on the date of ticket purchase, seat availability, and the applicable fare rules.

International Routes

A branded fare system is also being introduced on international routes, providing several airfare tiers in Economy and Business classes, which differ based on the set of included services and fare application rules.

Additional Information

In the event of unutilized travel on non-refundable tickets, passengers will be refunded all taxes and fees for the unused sectors, excluding the fuel surcharge and the booking fee.
