

In the sky, just as upon the earth, there is nothing more valuable than human life and the readiness to come to the rescue

2026 13 October

On the 11 of October upon the flight HY511 according to the route of Tashkent – Seoul, an extraordinary situation occurred: one of the passengers suddenly felt unwell. Thanks to the operative and coordinated actions of our crew, and also to the selfless help of the Uzbek doctor Kamilov Hasan Bakhriddinovich, who was flying upon this flight, the life of the woman was completely out of danger.

On behalf of the entire airline, we sincerely thank Kamilov Hasan Bakhriddinovich for the responsiveness, the high professionalism, and the readiness to provide assistance within a critical minute. Also, we are proud and express gratitude to our crew, which acted precisely, cohesively, and without delays.

This case is a very important reason to express gratitude. We express profound appreciation to all the medical professionals, who, even being upon a journey and outside of the medical office, respond to the call of the crew and save the lives of the passengers in the sky. The devotion to the noble calling is truly priceless!
