Uzbekistan Airways becomes leader in Russian Vnukovo Airport’s punctuality rating

2019 4 December

Vnukovo International Airport, Russia, compiled a Punctuality Rating of Airlines based on the results of the spring-summer season of 2019, in which Uzbekistan Airways won in two categories at once.

Uzbekistan’s national airline won the nominations “The most punctual airline in the passenger flow from 100,000 to 1 million passengers” and “For contribution to the development of regular international air routes”.

Uzbekistan Airways has not become the winner of the Vnukovo Airport Prize for the first time. The airlines won the nomination “The most dynamically developing foreign air carrier” in the punctuality rating based on the results of the autumn-winter season 2018-2019.

Currently, Uzbekistan Airways operates 49 flights to the Vnukovo International Airport per week, 21 flights from Tashkent and 28 flights from regional airports.
